The Old Men Drank Jake

Muscle Shoals Veto

The Power of Russia

How Was Thought Created

By Arthur Brisbane

HODGE, Cal., March 4.—Just west of here, at the edge of the beautiful Pacific ocean, Uncle Sam has a reservation where old soldiers, dating back to the Civil War, spend their last days, sitting on benches in the warm sunshine, watching automobiles rushing by with loads of beautiful movie queens, on their way to Santa Monica beach.

An every good prohibitionist knows that ought to satisfy the aged warriors, but it does not satisfy all. Before prohibition, some would occasionally spend five of their pennies for a glass of beer, no matter what that might mean to their future happiness. Under prohibition, some have accepted substitutes that bootlegging supplies.

Twenty-four of the old soldiers are today lying in agony in the Sawtelle Hospital, their muscles rigid, all of them close to death. They drank a deadly brand of alcoholic ginger called "jake" and will pay with their lives for their failure to respect the Eighteenth Amendment. Perhaps, getting the "jake" at drug stores, made it seem less wicked to them.

Concerning alcohol, the law makes an exception in favor of Protestant, Catholic, Jewish and other clergymen, those that possess the power to change the alcohol into the Precious Blood, and those that do not claim such power. Would it be a good idea to except also any soldiers past 70 that shed their blood for their country, since that is also precious blood?

President Hoover has vetoed the Muscle Shoals bill and the Senate has sustained that veto. The public investment of a hundred and fifty millions will continue to remain idle and wasted. Farmers could get cheap fertilizer from that plant. But that would not suit the fertilizer companies. Manufacturers and householders could get cheap electricity from that public investment, but that would not suit the power companies.

And even the weaning child would know that these companies and a few others are our actual government. That is not a complaint, only a statement of fact. It is probably desirable, on the whole, that intelligent feudal industry should govern, until the people develop signs of intelligent thinking, plus will power.

A powerful French radical complains that France spends too much, keeping ready for war. Brand, a real statesman, replies for the French government, that the Russian army is today the most formidable destructive power in the world, and he does not intend to have France taken by surprise.

Our government could learn from Brand, if it could learn from anyone. But it cannot, it is too busy with the beer question. Why worry about Russia or the next war, when you know that even now someone in America may be drinking a glass of beer.

France, as all the world knows, is the best prepared among the nations. A British statesman says, "We are polite to the French, because we know that their overwhelmingly powerful air fleet could destroy every city in Britain, on the day that war might be declared."

With all this preparation, France is marvellously prosperous. Her store of gold is next to ours. Per capita, she has more money than we. It is much greater than ours, and France, until within a few weeks, had been absolutely free of unemployment.

It pays to be prepared. And some day, our financiers, underlarding Russia, and directing their government to ignore Russia's government, may wish they had been wiser.

Prof. Einstein will be interested in his talk with Dr. Crile, about the latter's experiments in "artificial production of life, by means of physics and chemistry." Like other scientists, Prof. Einstein finds it necessary to explain in some material way the origin of life in the universe. He and they are not satisfied with the account of a Supreme Being, saying "let us make man in our image, after our likeness" as told in the first chapter of Genesis, then making a full-grown man out of dust or clay.

Science may name the elements essential to life, and apparently produce life from suitable protoplasm and chemicals. But life itself is no more important than steam, or capillary attraction. THOUGHT is the only thing of real importance.

HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS DAMAGE IN BIG STORM

Miles of B. & M. Under Water; the Highest Tide in 21 Years Wrecks Houses

More Storm Pictures on Page One Second Section

A surging, pounding surf, borne on the highest tide in 21 years and driven by a northeast snowstorm, ravaged the coast today, causing hundreds of thousands of dollars damage.

Shooting spray 50 feet into air, the surf battered the shore, isolating several communities, disrupting train service and shipping, wrecking cottages and flooding cellars and attics.

Hull, Nahant, Squantum, Point Shirley and Roughan's Point were cut off by the waves, train service to Wintthrop and Lynn was discontinued and boats were resorted to in a number of places.

From the South Shore to the New Hampshire coast tremendous waves swept over the wharves and inundated low-lying communities, tying up traffic, and in numerous places wrecking summer cottages.

At Nahant, N. H., the Boston & Maine railroad reported miles of tracks between Hampton and Nahant under water, there was water in the railroad's tunnel in Salem, and trouble was experienced in Beverly, Chelsea and Everett.

New Haven wharves were tied up when water rose over the tracks in the South station terminal on Port Point channel.

Boats were pressed into service when water rose over the wharves in Atlantic city, and residents of West Newton on Beacon st., Newton, the girl whose home is in Taunton, was taken to Newton Hospital.

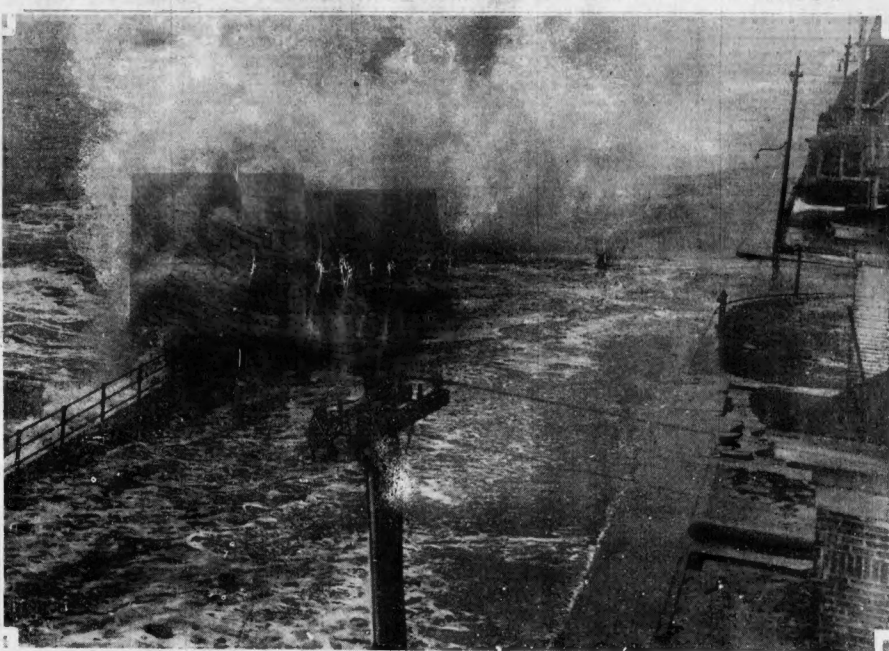

Harry Wheeler, 4 North Street, Leavitt st., Salem, struck him in the head, when he was taken to the hospital.

TOWERING SURF BREAKS OVER WINTHROP

Crashing billows and towering surf are not new spectacles in Wintthrop, but today's storm swept in the highest tide seen in 21 years and kicked up a surf that even the oldest inhabitant has never seen equalled. This spot on Wintthrop beach, between Ocean ave. and Sturgis st., was a scene beautiful and terrifying to behold. Thousands of tons of water, broken into fine spray, were hurled high into the air as each giant comber rolled in. (Staff photo.)

BOY DEAD, MANY HURT IN STORM

The storm that swept Greater Boston today brought in its wake a toll of accidents, including one death and numerous lesser casualties, most of them the result of motor accidents due to poor visibility.

Ray Eon, seven years old, was instantly killed when a gasoline truck operated by Ernest LaPointe, Leavitt st., Salem, struck him in the head, when he was taken to the hospital.

St. Louis, March 4.—Dan Johnson, former president of the American League, was growing weaker early today and no hope was held for his recovery. His physician, Dr. Robert Ryland, said the former baseball leader was delirious much of the time.

PASTOR SEEKS $200,000 Balm

For the lost love of his wife, whose suit for divorce resumes on Monday, John J. Callan, retired Wesleyan pastor, today sued his wife's attorney and her attorney-in-law for $200,000.

Charging alienation of the affections of his wife, Mary Hennessey Callan, alias of Bishop Lawrence, Callan named Mrs. H. V. Richard of New York and Mrs. Natalie Hennessey in two $100,000 actions.

They prevailed upon his wife to leave his home and company, it is alleged by Callan, former rector of St. Andrew's (Episcopal) Church, Wellesley.

Council Hickey Wins in Brookline

Discovery of an error in 360 votes in tabulating Precinct 3's votes in Brookline moved William J. Hickey into second place and a seat on the Board of Selectmen today.

The error in the tabulation for the present chairman, Charles F. Rowley, dropped him from second place to third, and off the board.

Corrected, the returns read: Selectman Theodore G. Brewer, 531 votes; William J. Hickey, 730 votes; Charles F. Rowley, 568 votes.

YOUTH WILL FACE VICTIM IN COURT IF SHE LIVES

Doctors See Hope for Haverhill Widow; the Defense May Change Plans

Haverhill, March 4.—Police announced today that it appears $75 was stolen from Mrs. Ellis the night she was attacked. She drew $200 from a bank Friday, it was stated, and spent not more than $125 for parties and other expenses.

By a Staff Correspondent

Haverhill, March 4.—From his cell 17-year-old Russell Noble today sent to his townspeople an emphatic denial of "poison gossip" linked with the hammer attack case, in which he is accused of assault with intent to kill Mrs. Clara E. Ellis.

Speaking through his brothers, to whom he entrusted the message, the boy branded all the gossip as "lies."

His brothers, frequent visitors to the county jail at Lawrence, where young Noble is held on $51,000 bail, said that gossip about the case was causing him pain, and he wanted to make it clear he did not start the story.

Important developments today in the case indicated a revamping of the plan of campaign to save the curfew-hour boy from the consequences of his alleged sudden switch from "naïf to criminal."

WIDOW TO TESTIFY
Coupled with improvement in the case indicated a revamping of the plan of campaign to save the curfew-hour boy from the consequences of his alleged sudden switch from "naïf to criminal."

This statement was by Mrs. George Kimball Clement, sister-in-law of the wealthy widow, who made it to set at rest persistent rumors to the contrary.

Mrs. Clement classed these rumors with other "poison gossip" about the case, to which considerably mystery still lurks in spite of energetic investigation by the authorities.

The rumors are hardly so-bodily known her better than I do, and I say she will disprove them by testifying against the boy."

A third blood transfusion is planned for the victim of the midnight attack, now in her seventh day at the hospital.

ONE CHOSE HONOR, LOVE AND TOIL, ONE THE PRIMROSE PATH TO THE FLAME

TAUNTS DROVE DAUGHTER OF "SLAY" BUTTERFLY TO SUICIDE

BODY OF GIRL IS FOUND GAS-FILLED ROOM

Daughter of Strangled Vice Witness Heartbroken Over Murder Revelations

New York, March 4 (INS)—A tragic aftermath to the strangling of Vivian Gordon—the pathetic suicide of the slain woman's 16-year-old daughter, Benita—spurred the police today in their efforts to solve the most vicious murder of the former stage beauty.

Even the most hardened "cop" experienced a heart twinge over the latest dramatic development in the Gordon case. "The dead woman's child, unable any longer to stand the revelations of her mother's sordid past, decided to 'end it all.'"

And so she killed herself with gas in the home of her father in Audubon, 25, E. 17th street, where she had grown up in ignorance of the life her mother "lived" along Broadway's gay white way.

DIARY TELLS STORY.
In a little red diary which had been given to her for Christmas by her stepmother, Benita made this final entry:

"I just can't live any longer. This has got to be too much for me. I am going to end it all." Here was a real life tragedy, more poignant than any conceived by even the imaginative writers of the long run of movie "murder" thrillers.

WRITEUP IN E. POWER FOUND.
Washington, March 4 (AP)—A Federal Trade Commission accountant testified today that he found a "write-up" of the transaction by which the New England Power Association, predecessor of the Massachusetts company, acquired the Massachusetts company.

At the witness, Kenneth A. Miller, was describing the many consolidations which led to the present New England Power Association, a closely knit group of Public Utilities, controlled by the International Paper & Power Company.

Miller said the assets and liabilities of the Massachusetts company were spread upon the books of the New England Power Co. in January, 1924. The assets were listed as $1,237,224 and the liabilities $1,237,224. The New England company paid the New England Power Co. of $1,237,224 for the New England Power Co. of $1,237,224.

LEWIS ADMITS HE IS NOISY, BUT LONDON.

New York, March 4 (INS)—Sir Lewis, writing critic, arrived home today on the Europa after receiving the Nobel prize in Stockholm and castigating American customs in a speech there, only to defend his native land against the aspersions of an English lecturer.

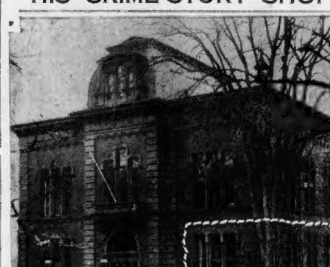

The lecturer was J. B. Priestley, London writer, who made a speech last night in which he said Lewis was a propagandist and a writer of trashy novels, and declared that New York was the noisiest city in the world.

"New York may have the noisiest streets but London has the noisiest lectures," Lewis commented. "I don't know, Mike's a good dancer."

HIS 'CRIME STORY' SHOP

WHERE NOBLE BOY PLANNED NOBLE, "model boy," held for the brutal attack on Mrs. Clara E. C. Ellis, society widow, is innocent.

And every man, except perhaps the Rev. George E. Cary, his pastor, seems to believe him guilty.

That is why a whispering campaign characterized by much bitterness, is going on throughout the city. Gossip is running riot with the names of both the victim and the accused and public feeling runs higher than it did over any other crime within the memory of the oldest one else, or is the innocent victim?

CALLED "GOAT"
Few women of the city credit reports that Russell, often called "Rudy" because of his resemblance to Rudy Vallee, signed a confession: all hint that he is shielding himself one else, or is the innocent victim?

There are strong indications that Russell suffered a mental breakdown. Mrs. Cary said, in an exclusive interview today, "He studied very hard to win a scholarship and he worked very hard after school. And he is going to get plenty of financial aid."

LONG INDIAN FIGHT ENDS AS GANDHI SIGNS PEACE TRUCE

CONGRESS ENDS LAST SESSION IN GLUM MOOD

Washington, March 4—The 71st Congress adjourned today amidst a tension reminiscent of the most exciting days of its two years.

The contentious spirit that has swept the Senate room from the start prevailed to the end, with a one-man filibuster tying up all activity in the closing hours.

The House passed the $20,860,000 hospitalization bill before yielding to the farewell ceremonies which marked the end of official life for more than 40 Republican members.

President Hoover signed the bill at 11 o'clock. The President went to the Capitol in the final hour to sign some last-minute bills and to say good-by to the 10,000 members who remained in the President's room. The President's room was a scene of great activity, with his personal staff and the Senate and House members who remained in the President's room.

Gandhi Obtains Amnesty for Prisoners in Return for Ending Disorders

Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press. New Delhi, India, March 4.—Mahatma Gandhi, Indian Nationalist leader, and Viceroy Lord Irwin at high noon today signed a truce which ends the Nationalist civil disobedience campaign and secures Nationalist co-operation in working out a qualified dominion status for India.

The formal truce culminated long negotiations between the viceroy and Gandhi, which reached fulfillment in a complete agreement at 1:30 p. m. today. Shortly afterward Gandhi left the palace in a motor car to inform the Nationalist working committee at Calcutta of the accord.

While the working committee discussed the terms on which he and Lord Irwin had reached agreement, Gandhi curled up on a straw mat at the side of the room and went to sleep. In return for abandonment of the civil disobedience campaign, Gandhi obtained from the viceroy an amnesty for all political prisoners held for non-violent offenses and the right of those refusing on the seashore to make their own salt.

NEW GARRETT TRIAL HALTED

Following a conference between District Attorney Foley and Judge Elias Bishop, who will preside at the trial, Margaret Innes and Stella Fraser, two women defendants, were in court prepared for their second trial.

WAIT FOR BETTER WEATHER
Although it appears that Sullivan has been suffering from arthritis for some time it had been announced yesterday that he was considerably improved in health.

The morning following a telephone communication from Inspector Mack Morrison, the police guard at Sullivan's home, to the district attorney, Asst. Dist. Atty. Doyle and Joseph A. Sullivan called on the former Hotel Elms proprietor.

He expressed his willingness to go to court. It was reported, but not confirmed, that it would probably have been necessary to have transported him on a stretcher.

District Attorney Foley believes that with an improvement in Sullivan's condition will result so the trial may start on Monday.

60 WITNESSES READY.
In the meantime, Dr. Timothy Leary, Suffolk medical examiner, will call at Sullivan's home, examine him and offer him any aid possible.

Seventy-odd government witnesses and 180 prospective jurors were ready for the opening of the trial, when, following the conference held in the judge's lobby, it was decided to postpone it.

Among the government witnesses are five who did not testify at the first trial, which ended in a jury disagreement. They are Margaret Innes of the Back Bay, Forrester Ware and Minnie Carrier, both of Rockland; William J. Davis of Dorchester and Special Officer Frank Bombard of Joy st. station.

Garrett was returned to Charles st. jail at noon. He appeared pecked and somewhat worn from his cold. Mrs. Garrett, who had a cold during the first trial, was apparently fully recovered and seemed much brighter.

and a million Critics and Einstein, plus all the chemists that ever lived, will not create thought, which is the work of the spirit.

Gandhi is said to have agreed on a settlement with England, one that will save his face, and not worry England much. Having led his followers to the seashore to make salt, in defiance of Britain's salt monopoly, Gandhi had to get some concession. English statements quite solemnly say, "Those that dwell at the edge of the sea may make their own salt, since God has placed them so near it." He shall make the salt for all others." Soon, even those near the sea will buy their salt, since making it is a nuisance.

Wise are the British, knowing how to make concessions that cost nothing. For instance, when they sent Balfour here, he persuaded our official dodos to junk brand-new battleships, costing tens of millions, some not fully completed. Britain kindly destroyed some handsome blue prints, and some old ships, not worth keeping.

Gandhi, perfectly sincere, is they in the hands of the poster. He will not touch milk, saying it belongs to the calf. Britain would say, "You are right about that, poor little calf. We shall only skim off the cream and sell the milk." India is, of course, better off that way than in the old days before British rule.

Idle workers, rioting in Albany, seeking to influence New York's legislative assembly, made it necessary to call out the state police. They came to suggest a dose, twenty-five dollars a week for married, fifteen dollars a week for unmarried idle men. Our best minds fear the dose and returning property will find a way to avoid it. Otherwise, direct giving of money to families in need might eventually seem wiser than handing it out through charitable organizations that need 30 to 60 per cent of the gross for overhead, which means salaries, hotel bills, traveling and investigation expenses for an army of employees. U. S. GAINS 810 MILLION IN GOLD

Washington, March 4 (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board, submitting its annual report to Congress today, said the stock of monetary gold in the United States increased $810,000,000 last year.

This was only $100,000,000 less than the peak increase of 1927. While that movement came mostly from Europe, the latest influx was from Japan, China and Latin America. From the latter quarter and from Australia gold shifted also to England.

The board said at the end of 1929 the weekly average of gold in the United States was $4,200,000,000.

Reviewing business and banking conditions in the 15 months prior to the new year, the board said that period had been one of readjustment and liquidation for banks.

Coordination of Rail and Bus Outlined

Washington, March 4 (INS)—Practical plans for coordinating rail and highway transportation without imposing restrictive regulations on buses and trucks, were presented to the Interstate Commerce Commission today by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

John F. Deasy, outlined the Pennsylvania's coordinated bus and truck services and its plans for extending these operations.

School for Politicians

Madrid, March 4 (AP)—A school for politicians has been established by a branch of the Liberal Conservative coalition party for aspiring city councilmen. Any candidate may attend for courses in political science.

FRENCH QUOTA 670,000 TONS

Rome, March 4 (AP)—It was learned on good authority today that the British-French-Italian naval accord gives France a global tonnage of 670,000 and Italy 641,000 as of 1936.

The French tonnage includes 54,000 tons of obsolete ships and the Italian 5900 tons.

This gives France an efficient tonnage of 586,000 and Italy 638,000. It is pointed out here, however, that the Italian claim to parity has not been sacrificed since the accord is only a temporary measure. It does not hold Italy to agreement beyond 1936.

The accord gives Italy and France the right to build two heavy cruisers, each of 23,000 tons, before 1936.

France may build 1441 tons of submarines and Italy 570, only halting building when she has 12,700 tons, which is her quota with the United States, Great Britain and Japan.

Between today and 1936 Italy will construct or complete 116,000 tons and France 128,000 tons, which will mean a difference of 1000 tons yearly.

The annual program of construction of the two countries, which has risen to more than 40,000 tons, is reduced to a little more than 21,000 to 22,000 tons.

15,000 at Funeral of Chilean Bandmen

Santiago, Chile, March 4 (AP)—Fifteen thousand persons today attended funeral services for 13 musicians drowned in Lake Llanquihue Saturday night when their boat sank after they had played at a dance for the Prince of Wales.

WHIST SLAYER SOBS OUT STORY

Kansas City, March 4 (AP)—Mrs. Myrtle A. Bennett, accused "bridge quack" slayer, took the stand today and described the shooting of her husband. John G. Bennett was accidental.

She began her testimony with the bridge game which the State contends led to Bennett's death. She finally broke down when she told of firing the bullets which killed her husband.

Asked what her husband did to her when they quarreled over their bridge playing, Mrs. Bennett replied:

"He slapped me."

"Hard or easy blows?"

"Hard," the witness replied.

Mrs. Bennett said her husband later declared his intention of beginning a business trip that night instead of in the morning, as previously planned. She said she went to talk to him where he was reaching for his bag.

"I just thought it would be better to try to make him feel better, to ask him not to go and to apologize to our guests," she said.

"He told me to get his gun."

Mrs. Bennett said she got the gun and was handing it to her husband when she "tumbled over the chair." The gun discharged and her husband was killed.

$20,000 Shipyard Fire

Essex, Conn., March 4 (AP)—The Essex Marine Railway yards were swept by fire today. The loss was placed at between $15,000 and $20,000. Power boats and many small craft in winter storage were partly burned.

Quiz on Hen and Egg Ownership Fails to Stamp Einstein

New York, March 4 (AP)—Dr. Albert Einstein, tired but in high spirits after a transcontinental railroad trip, reached here today in a driving snowstorm on his way back to Germany.

The professor exchanged reports with reporters and told cameramen, "You already have a picture of me. Besides, my face is not so good this morning." But he smilingly posed for photographs.

Repeatedly during the railroad trip from California, Dr. Einstein was interviewed. One question was:

"If a hen lays an egg and an egg is an act of God, who owns the egg?"

Dr. Einstein answered:

"The man with the best lawyer."

DROPS SAFELY 15,265 FEET

Los Angeles, March 4 (AP)—E. S. "Spud" Manning, 22, today claimed a new record for delayed parachute jumps after official calibration of the barograph he carried on a leap last Sunday showed he fell 15,265 feet before opening his chute.

The previous record was 7000 feet, set by Rex Barker on Cincinnati, in 1925.

W. P. Halderson, secretary of the Los Angeles chapter of the National Aeronautic Association, and Manning's jump demonstrated that a flier could fall any distance without fear of death from air pressure.

"I got the worst part of my life when I finally did pull the ring to open my parachute," Manning said, "but it wasn't hard to do."

Lame Ducks Are Now Waddling Away to Salt River

Washington, March 4—About 90 lame ducks are departing for good.

Among those who retire to private life are such veterans as Senators Furnifold Simmons of North Carolina, dean of the Senate, and Frederick Gillett of Massachusetts, and the chairman of several House committees.

Some are going voluntarily, some by verdict of the voters, some for all time and others to make comeback efforts by and by.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent column.

$23,500,000 TO CAPE CANAL

Washington, March 4 (AP)—Secretary Hurley transmitted to Congress today his recommendation of Maj.-Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of army engineers, for a modification of the Cape Cod canal project, to provide a lock canal with one lock, instead of the present six level canal.

The estimated cost of the modified project is $23,500,000 with $200,000 annually for maintenance.

Factory Speeds Up

Winsted, Conn., March 4 (INS)—Winsted Hosiery Co., employing 500 hands, today announced an increase in working hours that will affect nearly 150 of its workers.

You Need New Lubricate NASH Springs

NASH has always striven to free the Nash owner from service requirements. That is why, on Eight-80 and Eight-90 models, Nash provides Lifetime Lubricated Springs, designed specifically to carry the weight of the individual model on which they serve. Each spring is encased in a steel cover—which retains the original lubricant for the life of the car. This expensive construction assures perfected spring performance—preventing water, rust and grit between the spring leaves and the development of spring squeaks.

Besides Lifetime Lubricated Springs, features in one or all Nash models include: Twin-Ignition Eighties priced lower than last year's Sixes; Bijur Automatic Chassis Lubrication; increased horsepower; longer wheelbase; 9-bearing crankshaft in all Eight-cylinder models; 7-bearing crankshaft in the Six; new Nash Safety Transmission; insulated bodies; extra-quality upholstery, advanced beauty and luxury throughout.—Nash delivered prices make Nash cars the greatest values in their respective fields. Let us demonstrate the new Nash—and at the same time appraise your present car.

WHEREVER YOU BUY IT ... THE SAME high quality

JUST around the corner or hundreds of miles from home, wherever you see the familiar Atlantic sign, you can buy with confidence. For there is no variation in the quality of ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH. It is the same superior motor fuel everywhere . . . at dealer pumps and at service stations, in cities and along country roads.

This is the result of a definite Atlantic policy. We had a twofold purpose in bringing out ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH. The first was to make the finest gasoline that science could develop—a truly superlative motor fuel for the modern automobile engine. The second was to be sure that that motor fuel was delivered into your car exactly as it left the refinery. To this end, Atlantic dealers are picked men, carefully selected for their integrity and their ability to give service.

Your car needs a gasoline like ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH to give you the full performance it's capable of. Stop at an Atlantic pump today—any pump, anywhere. Tell the attendant: "I'm looking for quality, so fill 'er up with, ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH."

Young Popeye, in Debut as Sea-Going Orphan, Wallops Whale and Whale Wails

CHAPTER TWO

Poor little Popeye was an orphan, due to the fact that both of his parents were dead and also to the sad circumstances that he had neither a nor ma. His clothing consisted mainly of old flour sacks, a couple and a pair of shoes, and a straight razor. Then Whaler Joe picked up the luckless lad on the docks and bought him a new pipe and a fascinating straw skimmer with handsome radio antenna which marooned dandruff could not touch.

Popeye at the age of six began to fulfill his earlier promise. Nona of the hulls around the docks needed to lose their first teeth with the aid of a four-knob. Popeye relieved them of useless bicuspids with his famous left-right to the jaw. He was a great factor for good in discouraging crap-shooting among the rough dock children. He did this by invariably making 15 straight passes when he got the dice.

But times grew hard and Whaler Joe didn't catch many whales that he could sell. He had to sell his due to the junk man for the lead in his first fifty-penny boyish blieve. Then he fished forth again with a bent pin and a spoon of thread.

The whales noticed the tot's meagre fishing equipment. They really should have come prepared with a net, and thrashed about impudently, giving in a word, the horse-laugh to Popeye. Like a flash the quick-tempered youngster called to the deep-sea upstarts:

"Blow me down, you—"
There was immediately quiet like a pall around Popeye's rail bobbing craft. The largest of the whales, deeply offended, climbed into the boat and gave Popeye a lot of water straight on the snout. The boy, triumphant, feeling his strength for the first time, and delivered a fast one-two to the place where the whale's chin might have been. The whale staggered and fell limply to the bottom of the boat.

Popeye took home a nice string of whales that night.

Tomorrow: The story of Popeye's great battle to win his name. Follow Popeye's exploits on the comic page, and the world will look bigger.

LAST RITES FOR O'CONNELL IN WORCESTER

Worcester, March 4.—Notables of the legal and political world gathered at Blessed Sacrament Church this morning to pay their final tribute to Judge Philip J. O'Connell, who died here Monday.

A delegation from the Massachusetts Bar Association, led by President Frederick W. Mansfield, and officials of the Law Society of Massachusetts were present, together with a large representation from the state's judiciary.

Honorary pallbearers were John E. White and Bernard Rothwell, Dr. Michael J. Fallon, Jr., Dr. William J. Delahanty, John F. Tinsley and Frederick Homer of Boston.

Active bearers were Thomas E. O'Connell, Maurice P. Reidy, George P. Booth, Thomas H. Callery, Charles F. Campbell, John P. Hanlon, Mark O. Carroll and James H. Savage of New York.

The Rev. William E. Ryan, pastor of the church, was celebrant of the mass of requiem. The sanctuary was filled with guests, among them the Rev. John M. Fox, S. J., president of Holy Cross College.

All court sessions in Worcester were suspended during the funeral, and a tribute to the late judge, once

70 Years in One Job, Man, 90, Vows He Will Make It Go

Bridgeport, Ct., March 4 (AP).—Edward A. Brownell had a party last night because it was his 70th birthday anniversary. It was in the plant of the Singer Manufacturing Co., with officials as the hosts in recognition of his 70 years of continuous service. He was given a check for $2000.

Mr. Brownell works every day, hasn't thought of retiring and will look forward to another party in 1941 when he winds up 80 years of service.

mayor, was read into the proceedings of the City Council.

Judge Bishop Delivers Eulogy of O'Connell
Judge Elias R. Bishop in the Suffolk Superior Criminal court today delivered a eulogy from the bench Justice Philip O'Connell. He said:

"Monday there passed away in the city of which he had been mayor, Philip J. O'Connell, who for more than 16 years was a justice of this court. He said the sincere respect and the deep affection of all his associates. He gave his best in the service of his native city and this Commonwealth."

"It is fitting that, as the last mark of respect which we can pay to his memory this session should now adjourn until 11 o'clock."

N.Y. DEMOCRATS ARE AGAINST DRY ISSUE

Washington, March 4 (AP).—Any attempt to bring up prohibition or any other controversial issue at tomorrow's meeting of the Democratic National Committee will be opposed by both New York representatives, who, like the Southerners, feel that harmony should be the watchword.

Norman E. Mack, national committeeman from New York, today added his plea for avoidance of friction to those of the New York State Committee. Southern party leaders in Congress and others from the East and West.

James A. Farley, New York State chairman, whose committee went on record in Albany Monday against efforts to commit the party to any policies for 1932, has obtained the proxy of Miss Elizabeth Marbury, national committeewoman.

Meanwhile, Chairman Raskob—around whom have centered reports a move might be made to place the party on record against prohibition—and Alfred E. Smith, presidential candidate in 1928, remained silent as to whether such a move would be made.

Court Crowd Looks in Vain for Capone

Chicago, March 4 (AP).—Spectators who packed the felony court today to see "Scarface Al" Capone, the wealthy boss of Chicago's gangs, stand trial for vagrancy, went home with nint cheeks for the next appearance March 20. The state was not ready in time to file an amended complaint. The trial was then scheduled ahead 16 days.

Port of Boston News

By JAMES J. DELANEY

February showed an increase over last year in the number of passengers arriving from foreign countries into the Port of Boston, according to the monthly statement of the United States customs service of foreign commerce.

The monthly figures for 1930 showed a total of 1164 as against 1068 for February of 1929. Arrivals included 142 from Europe, 92 from Newfoundland and 363 from the West Indies and Central America.

Foreign vessel arrivals remained about the same for the first two months of this year over the first two months of last year. During February of this year 106 steamers and one schooner arrived, which compared with 106 steamers and six schooners during February of last year. Foreign cargo for the first two months of this year totaled 210 as against 223 for the same period a year ago.

Tomorrow We Open the New Howard Store

at 605 Washington Street
Right in the Hub of Boston

(Sharing Honors with our famous
43 Tremont Street Store . . .)

FOR more than five years, the patronage of the Howard Clothes store has grown and grown—and now the name of "Howard" is the clothes buy word in Boston.

During the five years, Boston men have found in Howard Clothes that something that is not obtainable elsewhere. These men and their friends have come back to Howard, season after season. Is there any wonder then that Howard Clothes enjoys such overwhelming public acceptance?

The tremendous volume in all the Howard stores is the vast power that makes possible, such fine woolens—such excellent tailoring—such careful craftsmanship—such smart styles.

Here's the new Howard store—with its, spacious floors, filled to capacity with clothes that are a pleasure to look at, wonderful to wear and in such vast variety that every man will marvel at the tremendous showing. We invite you to inspect the store . . . and these clothes tomorrow. It will be worth your while.

Scorpio's Gang Wins Election Victory

What Has Gone Before
Louis Scorpio, called "Slughterhouse," champion steer killer of the stockyards and winner of the revolver prize at the butchers' annual picnic, decided to join the bootleg racket run by Johnny Franks. His decision was clinched by the frameup appearance at Franks' cafe of "Peaches," a beauty of the underworld. The gang invades the territory of Joe Colimo, a rival racketeer, with a truckload of beer. Fight ensued, in which Colimo's brother is killed. Colimo puts Scorpio "on the spot," but fails to kill him. The latter returns to the steak house and shoots Franks to death. "The Secret Six" is organized to fight crime.

CHAPTER 11

Scorpio Favors Anne
Scorpio pondered on this. He didn't exactly understand.

"I think I can swing the stockyards gang, anyhow," he said. "I'll catch them coming out of the yards tomorrow—we'll have a truckload of presents—candy and booze, and such like, at every gate—free smokes, and I'll make a speech—you got to write it, of course."

"Good," rejoined Newton. "If we can swing the South End and the stockyards we can probably win out. In another office, in the big city, another meeting was being held. The six grave-faced business men were meeting in their secret office."

"You mustn't underestimate the importance of that election in Centro," Markham was warning the group. "If the Scorpio gang elects its ticket, that means it has a perfect stronghold—even to police protection—from which to invade the city. And the gang's growing so big and powerful that it's sure to be the result. Even now in the underworld, my reporters tell me, Scorpio is considered a bigger man than Colimo, even though he hasn't really invaded us yet."

Domian nodded. "Either Scorpio and Colimo will get together—or they're going to be one hell of a big gang after that election," he said. "And we'll have to get some kind of action for our own protection. You know—San Francisco they used to form vigilance committees of citizens to clean out nests of crooks. I have two hundred lieutenants out now, organizing. I don't like to admit the police may fall down—but I'm playing safe. And snail—thing—the gangsters have some sort of wind about us—I hear references to 'The Secret Six' here and there. I'm trying to keep that down."

Scorpio Wins

Scorpio's campaign in the stockyards was a grand success. His speech was a peroration—he told them he had not forgotten his old pals—now Nick from the West would mean new prosperity for his buddies—and every stockyard worker had in for himself, cash and the misadventure and full instructions how to vote.

Election day saw several hundred taxis and private autos, commanded by the Scorpio gang, hauling his voters to the polls. The reform election looked grave.

That night, in Scorpio's headquarters, the gang leaders and their candidates waited anxiously. From the radio flooded the returns. The reform ticket piled up heavy votes in the residence sections, until the Misadventure ticket was snowed under by several thousand votes.

"We're sunk! We'll have to be the ones who that reform crowd gets in!" wailed Scorpio.

"Wait," warned Newton. "The stockyards and South End have heard from you. They did not have to wait long. A few more deplorable returns

INSURANCE FOR JOBLESS URGED BY SAWYER

European Plan Is Favored by
Ware Solon at Hearing on His Bill

Unemployment insurance now in effect in many European countries, was recommended to the study of Massachusetts legislators by Representative Roland D. Sawyer of Ware at a hearing before the Legislative Committee on Insurance today.

Speaking in behalf of his bill for the creation of a state unemployment insurance division, Representative Sawyer said that more frequent and longer periods of business depression would develop in future years because of increased machine production.

AID FOR JOBLESS

The bill provides for payments to persons out of work at the rate of $1 per day for those under 18 years and $2 per day for persons above that age.

Representative Sawyer said the bill with minor changes was based on one drawn up by Prof. John F. Andrews of New York, secretary of the American Association of Labor Legislation.

"The Andrews bill," Sawyer said, "has served as the basis for unemployment insurance bills submitted to the legislatures of a number of eastern States. There is a continually growing need for such insurance."

"The time is gone when you can tell individuals to be thrifty and save for the rainy day," he said.

Alfred Baker, Lewis, co-sponsor of the bill, quoted employment figures for the past ten years, which showed, he said, a gradual decline in the number of persons employed.

He pointed to the decreased enrollment of students at colleges in Greater Boston. Tax burdens on owners of properties are steadily mounting, he said, because of the tremendous increase in relief work of cities and towns.

400 SEE TUNNEL WIDENING PLAN BIDS OPENED

Bids for construction of Section A of the traffic tunnel in East Boston, the underwater section, were opened today in the office of the Boston Transit Commission at City Hall.

Col. Thomas F. Sullivan, chairman of the transit commission, opened the bids at 1 Deacon st. in the presence of 400 spectators.

The lowest bid, for $2,874,500, was made by the Boston Tunneling & Construction Co. of New York, with a bid of $3,608,310.

Coleman Bros., Inc., of Boston, were highest bidders with a figure of $4,516,023.20.

The Transit Commission will forward the bids to Mayor Curley at once, and the Mayor is expected to award the contract within a few days.

Work will start on Section A of the tunnel within 12 days of the contract award.

SAYS MEDDLING BY IN-LAWS BROKE HOME

Testifies Wife's Father Offered Him $50 Weekly and an Auto for Divorce

Salem, March 4.—Solomon Gross, on the stand today in divorce proceedings brought against him by his wife on charges of unfaithfulness, charged his wife's parents with breaking up his home by "persistent meddling."

"I find of a meeting between myself, my wife and my wife's parents at which, he said, he was informed by his father-in-law, the late Harry Goodman, that he wished his daughter in divorce."

According to Gross, Goodman "suggested" to Franks the divorce. Franks, who was in the city at the time, was in the city at the time.

"We can tell lies and get away with it," Gross said, according to his testimony. "My wife's father-in-law, Harry Goodman, was in the city at the time."

As an alternative, Gross was told by Goodman that he would be allowed a six months' probationary term on condition that he sign a statement that he had beaten and otherwise mistreated his wife. The statement was to be held over his head to insure good behavior, Gross said.

Gross signed the statement rather in wreck his marital happiness, and, and later was ridiculed by his wife for signing it.

"My father set a trap for you, and you fell into it," Mrs. Gross is alleged to have said.

SLAYER OF GIRL CHANGES PLEA

Judge Harold P. Williams, in Suffolk Superior Court, today allowed the motion of Abraham Goldenberg, 27, of Dorchester, that he be allowed to withdraw his plea of guilty and be permitted to enter a plea of not guilty to the indictment charging him with the murder of a sweetheart, Lilyan Frank of Malden.

The murder of the young woman was committed in Franklin Park several weeks ago. Immediately after the shooting Goldenberg surrendered. At the time he pleaded guilty he was not represented by counsel.

Since that time, Attorney Timothy P. Callahan has been appointed by the court as his counsel.

WAR VETERANS RUSH TO EVENING AMERICAN FOR LOAN ASSISTANCE

Just to see that veterans of the World War have as little trouble as possible getting service loans from the government, the Boston Evening American, continues its loan bureau at 5 Winthrop sq. You'll be given prompt attention there. This scene was snapped yesterday afternoon as vets with their children came along to fill out the necessary blanks. The aides include Mrs. Walter H. Woods and Mrs. Carrie L. Wiley, representing the State Federation of Women's Clubs; Miss Catherine Dermody and Mrs. Adele M. Hendrickson, of the Oliver Ames, Jr. post 117, American Legion Auxiliary. In addition to this work in aiding World War men to make their applications, the Boston Evening American saved the day for the Boston Veterans' Bureau by printing thousands of blanks to aid in emergency. These have greatly speeded the work of alleviating need. (Staff photo.)

WAR HERO, WHO CAPTURED 50, SEEKS LOAN

The Boston Evening American bureau will be open daily from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., main floor, 5 Winthrop sq. At this bureau veterans will receive application blanks and instructions for filling them out and filing them with the Veterans' Bureau.

With three highly prized decorations and citations for bravery in action during the World War in his pocket, John J. O'Brien, of 504 Cummins highway, Roslindale, walked into the Boston American bureau at 5 Winthrop sq. and announced that he was out of work and seeking financial relief by means of a loan on his adjusted compensation certificate.

Although possessed of a distinguished Service Cross and Croix de Guerre, as well as a citation for distinguished and exceptional gallantry while in action in France, O'Brien has been without employment for a month and has been forced to make a loan on his bonus certificate.

F. J. KENNEDY, CLOTHIER, DIES IN STORE

Frederick J. Kennedy, 67, of 137 Clinton rd., Brookline, multi-millionaire president and founder of the Kennedy Men's Clothing Store, died in the office of his Boston store, 32 Summer st., early today. He was stricken in his office last yesterday afternoon with a heart attack.

Physicians who were summoned decided to keep him in the office rather than risk a trip to the hospital.

LARGE STOCKHOLDER

He was, at the time of his death, the second largest individual stockholder in the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. He held 35,000 shares in the company on March 15, 1930. He was second only to George F. Baker, of New York, in this respect.

Mr. Kennedy was born near Lowell, Vt., on Sept. 28, 1864, and received a grammar school education there. At the age of eight years he went to work in a woolen mill in Lowell. Upon reaching manhood, he went to Pittsfield, Mass., where he was employed in a retail clothing store.

STARTED IN HYDE PARK

In 1893, the year of the panic, he came to Hyde Park, and almost penniless, opened his first store. Other stores were opened in Beverly, Brockton, Lynn, Worcester and then the Boston store on Summer st. was opened.

He was an active member of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. He was a member of the Masonic Order, the Boston Art Club and many other fraternal and social organizations.

He is survived by his wife, Phoe

2 BOY BANDITS BOB STORE

Two armed youths about 16 or 20 years old entered a grocery store at 402 Lynn st., Malden, today and at gun point forced the manager and his wife into the back room, locked the door and the cash register. They then fled in an expensive automobile. A woman customer, whose name Malden police are withholding, heard the manager and his wife screaming and released them. The automobile in which the youths made their getaway was registered in the name of a well-known man, the police said.

3 OTHERS FACE ARRAIGNMENT TOMORROW

Atty.-Gen. Warner Not Prosses Indictments; "Injustice to Prosecute," He Says
Indictments naming James M. Swift of Fall River, former attorney-general, and Edmund H. Talbot, Boston lawyer, in the $8,000,000 New England Investors' Shares, Inc., were not prossed today by Atty.-Gen. Warner.

Entering of the action with the clerk of Suffolk Superior court was the first disclosure that Swift and Talbot were among the 15 secretly indicted by the Suffolk grand jury.

Swift, who was a director and legal advisor of the company, and Talbot, who was a director and acted as treasurer, were named in one of the 25 indictments returned against 15 persons.

In his memorandum accompanying the not prossing of the indictments against Swift and Talbot, Atty.-Gen. Warner said the grand jury had been advised there was no evidence warranting the indictment against them and to attempt to prosecute would "bring a grave and irreparable injustice" against both.

Swift was named in two additional indictments with others for conspiracy to perpetrate a fraud and in one indictment without others for conspiracy to steal property of the Discount Co.

The 26 indictments against 13 other persons, whose identity is not yet made public, apparently will stand on and on the 17th States.

A number of these, three or five, will appear in the Supreme Court at 11 o'clock tomorrow. They were returned today by Atty.-Gen. Sawyer, who is prosecuting the case, was obliged to appear in Springfield Court.

MAN PUNCHED BY RUSSELL KEEPS JOB

McMenimen's Reappointment Is Sent to Council; Shea Charges "Cheap Politics"

The Cambridge City Council received a shock last night when Mayor Richard M. Russell sent in the reappointment as superintendent of streets of William R. McMenimen, who is alleged to have been punched in the jaw by the mayor six months ago.

Another surprise was the mayor's nomination of Forrest L. Gould for the office of city treasurer to supplant Henry F. Lohm, Gould is the seventh man to have been selected for the job by Russell. The council has refused to confirm the other six appointments and action on the Gould appointment was tabled for a week.

"CHEAP POLITICS" CHARGED
Further excitement was added when Councilman-Larry Charles H. Shea charged that "cheap politics" were being used by the mayor's office in giving jobs to the unemployed.

The councilor cited a recent case in which he said a young man out of work went to the mayor's office to register for work and was interviewed by Joseph Coyne, a clerk in the mayor's office. Coyne told the youth to see the city councilor in his ward, according to Shea. The youth is said to have asked if Councilor Shea would be all right, in which Coyne was quoted by Shea as replying: "No, he won't do you any good around here."

Shea intimated that if an instance of continued unemployment for those out of work is not unless they get along, with the Russell administration.

RUSSELL DENIES CHARGE.
The mayor denied the existence of an unemployment bureau and expressed doubt that Coyne made such a remark, when informed of Shea's remarks after the meeting. He said that no politics entered into decisions reached by the city council.

Russell McMenimen has been a hold-over in office for more than 12 months, his last appointment by Mayor Edward W. Quinn having expired Nov. 1, 1929.

BACKLIT FIENDISH TORTURE OF CAGED TIGER

FAMING With GEORGE UNDERWOOD

Battle of Busted Rib Good Soiree Not to Bet On. Smoke Screen So Thick It Obscures Shamus and Primo.

OF COURSE, IF YOU'RE "IN THE KNOW"

"One day it's mull on honey, next day you haven't got no money! Every gambler man he knows, it's easy come an' easy gone. One day you're a great big winner, next day you're 'out' for dinner. An' when you're there, there's no will aish, for the gambler man."

IF WE WERE a gambler man, like the one in the old song we started to hum as we sat down to the Remington, we wouldn't wager a single solitary copper on tomorrow night's Battle of the Busted Rib down Miami way. But there will be odds of money wagered nevertheless. Suckers will bite and shampans will hook 'em as long as human nature remains the same.

Besides, if you're a gambler man you've just got to gamble. It's in the blood, just like it was in the blood of Wilson Miter's old sour dough, who came wandering out of a gambling joint in a Nevada mining camp. Another old timer saw him coming out and said:

"Hey, Jim, what'd you get in there for? Don't you know the wheel is crooked?"

"I know," answered Jim, "but it's the only wheel in town."

That Carnara-Maloney fight is the only fight in Miami, and crooked or straight, they'll bet on it to the hilt.

MAYBE it will be worth while for those "in the know" in the front line trenches down Miami way to risk a few simoons. But how can we, way up here so far from the war zone, attempt to call the tams? They've thrown the thickest smoke screen around Shamus and Primo that ever obscured an event in the annals of sport. Consider some of the "angles."

Here in Boston the giant 250-pound Italian and the South Boston man put up one of the fastest, closest fights ever fought between heavyweights. The decision went to Maloney. But many experienced, unbiased judges of boxing thought the latest result should have been placed on the roof of the Tall Tower of Gorgonzola.

THE majority of even those who agreed with the official decision left the Garden with the impression that in a return match Primo certainly would whip Shamus. The Italian had trained like the Harp. The giant Venetian only seemed to be getting "warmed up" in the last few rounds.

After seeing their first fight and under the ordinary course of events we unhesitatingly would pick Carnara to whip Maloney.

But we're not going to attempt to pick a winner of a fight 1500 miles away when the issue is so befuddled and obscured as tomorrow night.

THERE is no foul-proof protector rule protecting the Miami affair, which safeguarded the bout here in Boston. Carnara is supposed to have suffered a fractured rib and have been unable to do any training for a fortnight. A letter sent from Boston to Leon Leo brought an allegation that caused a switch in the arena. A pelican, whose beak will hold more than his belly can, brought the report that to prevent Carnara and Leo from leaving Miami the giant fighter and his manager are under constant guard by two gunning jents.

DID CARNARA really fracture a rib? Or was the story cooked up to influence the betting odds, or to give the temperamental Maloney a creature of mood, confidence enough to go through with the encounter? Is the Italian Man Mountain really being compelled to go through the bout with Shamus under compulsion? Has Primo really refrained from training, or has he been working in secret? Has there been a break between Leo and Billy Duffy and his associates, or is underworld parlaying, being "given the works"?

If anyone could pick up the winner to all those questions, we would certainly be a rich man. Without the answers we'll let other and braver chaps do the guessing.

SIGNS along the trail are that despite all the suspicious surrounding the battle will be waged strictly on its merits. Each fighter in future matches apparently has too much at stake to lose the encounter.

Whatever takes place, it is sincerely to be hoped that nothing will happen that will cause further distress to the cauliflower industry. Boxing just now is the Black Man of Sport. Anything that would cause a further slump in boxing would be regretted.

IF CARNARA's busted rib is a myth and the giant Italian has been indulging in secret training that will be nothing new in pugilism. On several of the days that Jack Dempsey was reported laying off in training for Carpentier at Atlantic City, the Manassa Mauler was working in secret in the big banger there at the airport.

When Dempsey was training at Tom Luther's beautiful place at White Sulphur Springs on Saratoga Lake for Firpo or Sharkey—we just can't recall which—there was a whole week in which Jack was not supposed to have done any training. To be sure Jack kept away from the ring picked on the shores of the picturesque lake, but nevertheless he was working, and working harder than ever.

PRIMO CARNARA. Jack's hungover was perched high up among the pines on the hills half a mile away from the lake. There, as far as open sport in the woods that had been tramped down by many a swirling foot. That evening one of the sparring partners showed up for dinner a beautiful shiner. Yet he wasn't supposed to have done any boxing in several days. He got the black eye by "running into a door."

Putting two and two together, it can be seen whether Dempsey had been working or, as reported, "laying off."

THE GENERAL public and many of the sports writers understand little or nothing about training. When a boxer lays off a day, and sometimes several days, they think he is neglecting his training. It has been our experience that more modern boxers suffer from over training than under training.

A boxer who does not understand Florida and its climate generally overworks. The day after his first bout with Schilling, for his second Florida fight, with Scott, the Spirit took things easier and was in much better shape. The pleasure we saw of Jim Maloney make Shamus appear down pretty fine. Maloney made his last fight in the training quarters.

One thing is certain. Carnara can't claim that he overtrained.

If Carnara and Maloney are in war the fouled-out, no official mention has been made of it. The foul-proof protector prevents a boxer "fouling out," a favorite way to lose a match or avoid losing by a knockout.

Bring 'Em Back Alive

By Frank Buck and Edward Anthony Chapter 5 Pictures by Hal Coffman

IN AN OPEN SPACE BETWEEN TWO STRUCTURES THAT HOUSED THE PRINCES ROSE HORSES—WE CAME UPON A CAGE CONTAINING ONE OF THE MOST MAGNIFICENT SPECIMENS OF A ROYAL BENGAL TIGER. I HAVE EVER BEHELD—THE CAGE WAS THE COMPRESSIBLE TYPE—SIMILAR TO THOSE USED IN ZOOLOGICAL GARDENS FOR SURGICAL OPERATIONS ON SAVAGE ANIMALS—THE ANIMAL IS WEDGED IN AND HELD TIGHTLY IN PLACE AS THOUGH GRIPPED IN A VICE.

"THE CLUMPS WERE APPLIED TO THE NARROWED CAGE AND THE TIGER WAS AN UTTERLY HELPLESS PRISONER—THE SYCE" LISHED EACH PAW TO THE NEAREST END OF THE CAGE—A GROOM APPEARED WITH A PAIR OF HEAVY IRON SNIPPERS—SIMILAR TO THE KIND BLACKSMITHS USE IN REMOVING OLD HORSE SHOES—HE GRIPPED ONE OF THE TIGER'S CLAWS AND GAVE A GREAT YANK—THE ENRAGED ANIMAL STRAINED BACK AND EMITTED AN AERIAL SPLITTING CRY OF ANGUISH—THIS WAS KEPT UP UNTIL ALL THE TIGER'S CLAWS WERE PULLED OUT."

"THE SYCE" THEN TOOK A LARGE NEEDLE AND WITH SURGICAL CALM—COLD BLOODILY SEWED THE TIGER'S LIPS TOGETHER."

Tiger's Claws Pulled With Huge Pincers and Lips Sewed

The maharajah who ordered the battle to death between the war buffalo and the Bengal tiger had other methods of slaking his thirst for blood and torture. He sinks to the nadir of depraved cruelty in this tale told by Frank Buck in his epic of adventure "Bring 'Em Back Alive."

The tiger whose destruction the maharajah sought was a gentleman of feline breed compared to the human whose savage when he was tortured to appease. Nothing but the mind of a denuded fiend could endure up the scene that develops in this chapter of the greatest wild animal story ever told.

CHAPTER V.

A year later I had occasion to return to the scene of the tiger-buffalo fight. I had come good orders for black buck antelope and this section of northern India was the ideal place to get them.

As a matter of course, I looked up my friend, Jim Venell, who, when he was tortured to appease, was the tiger whose destruction the maharajah sought was a gentleman of feline breed compared to the human whose savage when he was tortured to appease. Nothing but the mind of a denuded fiend could endure up the scene that develops in this chapter of the greatest wild animal story ever told.

SCHOOLBOYS PIN HOPES IN LEGISLATURE

The report by the legislative committee on municipal finance, which was the subject of a bill in the Boston school board, has been a money for another attempt to put in the public schools a bill in all probability to a committee on the subject of the bill.

The Legislature is expected to pass the bill by a large vote. The bill is a bill to amend the act of 1917, which was passed by the Legislature in 1917, and which was amended in 1918, 1919, 1920, 1921, 1922, 1923, 1924, 1925, 1926, 1927, 1928, 1929, 1930, 1931, 1932, 1933, 1934, 1935, 1936, 1937, 1938, 1939, 1940, 1941, 1942, 1943, 1944, 1945, 1946, 1947, 1948, 1949, 1950, 1951, 1952, 1953, 1954, 1955, 1956, 1957, 1958, 1959, 1960, 1961, 1962, 1963, 1964, A Base Betrayal

Navy Pledge of Republicans Reduced to "Scrap of Paper"

In the light of the facts it is hard to see how the leaders of the REPUBLICAN PARTY, at both ends of Pennsylvania Avenue, can dodge "the responsibility or escape the blame for the scuttling of the American Navy by the REPUBLICAN CONGRESS which expires on March 4.

By its National Platform of 1928, the Republican Party pledged its President and Congress, in the following words, to building up the Navy to treaty strength.

"WE PLEDGE OURSELVES TO ROUND OUT AND MAINTAIN THE NAVY IN ALL TYPES OF COMBATANT SHIPS TO THE FULL RATIO PROVIDED FOR THE UNITED STATES BY THE WASHINGTON TREATY FOR THE LIMITATION OF NAVAL ARMAMENT AND ANY AMENDMENT THEREOF."

In 1920 the Republican President and the Republican Senate elected upon this platform amended the Washington Treaty by the ratification of the London Treaty with the aid of Democratic votes.

These Democratic votes were obtained partly on the solemn assurance that the Republican President and the Republican Congress would proceed forthwith "to round out and maintain the Navy in all types of combatant ships to the full ratio provided for the United States" by the London Treaty.

This was the solemn pledge of the Republican President and the Republican Congress now in power.

This pledge has now been reduced at the present session to "a scrap of paper" by the refusal of the Republican leaders at both ends of Pennsylvania Avenue to make their party's performance square with their party's pledge.

When the present session of Congress began, the Navy Department recommended the authorization of a modest building program to begin the upbuilding of the Navy to treaty strength.

The Navy Department also recommended an increase of twenty-five per cent in the present number of appointments to Annapolis with a view to beginning the training of the additional officers required by a Navy of treaty strength.

Instead of authorizing even the modest and inadequate building program for which the Navy Department appealed, the Republican leaders in both Houses of Congress have deliberately refused to permit this program to come to a vote in either House.

Instead of providing for an increase of twenty-five per cent in the number of appointments to Annapolis, the Republican leaders in both Houses of Congress, after a conference with the Republican President, have provided in the regular Naval Appropriation Bill for next year for a twenty-five per cent reduction in appointments to Annapolis.

It is futile for the Republican press and the Republican press agents to pretend that they have thus scuttled the Navy in order to prevent an extra session of Congress.

There were plenty of votes in both Houses of the present Congress, as the leaders of the Republican Party well know, to pass the building program and maintain, if not increase, the present number of midshipmen.

It was the REPUBLICAN LEADERS who defeated this legislation by preventing it from coming to a vote.

As a result the American Navy will remain more than thirteen per cent below the tonnage allowed the United States by the London Treaty, while the British Navy is less than two per cent, and the Japanese Navy less than one per cent below treaty strength.

Not only have the leaders of the Republican Party at the present session broken their platform pledge to build up the Navy, but they have also turned a deaf ear to the outstanding lesson of the fleet maneuvers just held at Panama.

That lesson emphasizes the imperative need of immediately increasing the serial and submarine strength of the fleet as provided for in the building program which the present Congress has junked.

By the time the new Congress convenes next December, the American people should be in full possession of all the facts about the scuttling which the Navy has suffered at the present session.

In the light of those facts, public sentiment will demand that the new Congress either build up the Navy to treaty strength forthwith or MAKE WAY FOR A NEW LEADERSHIP AT BOTH ENDS OF PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE THAT WILL.

A party that stoops to false pretenses to ratify a treaty and makes its platform pledge "a scrap of paper," and refuses to provide "for the common defense" betrays the American people, and is not fit again to secure the confidence of the people.

Smashing the Atom

Apprehensive persons may be worried for the next week or two. A pair of young scientists in Germany are trying to annihilate the atom. They will use a 15,000,000-volt lightning bolt in a sealed aluminum chamber. If they smash their atom interesting results are predicted—nobody knows just what.

Professor L. I. Baki, of Columbia, says there is no cause for alarm. Professor Henry N. Russell, of Princeton, however, is less certain.

"If an atom were to be split into lighter atoms no very startling effect would follow," Russell is quoted as saying. "But if an atom could be annihilated, or rather converted entirely into radiant energy, the consequences would depend on how many other atoms it would set off and whether they would set off others.

Many have speculated on the possibility of some grand explosion of unknown forces that would wipe out the world like a flash of gunpowder if the scientists are permitted to play with the cosmos unsupervised. These fears are probably groundless. But if they are not it is troubling to remember that nobody will know the difference. By the time it starts it will be all over.

AN SOS UNHEEDED

"SCUTTLE AND SINK" is the policy of the unpatriotic Republican politicians in the House of Representatives with regard to the U. S. Navy.

National Defense and National Security mean NOTHING to them.

Not only have they REFUSED to build up the Navy to "parity with the strongest," under the terms of the London Treaty, or to MAINTAIN it in its present inadequate state, but they have set out deliberately to CRIPPLE the NAVY by REFUSING to maintain its personnel.

THE TURN OF THE TIDE

Every indication is that American business is getting over its period of readjustment.

Especially is it recovering from fear, that unnecessary element in the situation.

There are problems to be faced, but it begins to look as though Business would solve them to the benefit of the whole nation.

New York Day by Day Old Trinity at Sunset By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 4.—It is only after sundown that old Trinity differs the benign and mellow grandeur bespeaking its charm.

During the day the distracting roar of the beginning of the 19th century in Louis XVI style, it too, offers a beautiful tracery in the gathering dusk when its windows fade into a glowing purple. It has been the scene of historic events from the reception of Lafayette to the welcome to Lindbergh. Lincoln's body was on view there. In rotunda galleries are statues of early New York magistrates looking sternly upon sight-seers. And one wonders what they would think of their recent and unworthy successors.

Another reminder of Revolutionary days is France's Tavern, a name honoring its original owner, the decaying flat gravestones of the great.

A venerable edifice standing out in contrast among surrounding towers is the City Hall. Built at the beginning of the 19th century in Louis XVI style, it too, offers a beautiful tracery in the gathering dusk when its windows fade into a glowing purple. The Handwriting On the Wall

By Bainbridge Colby

THE steady progress of public opinion with reference to holding companies is reflected by the recent report of the House interstate and foreign commerce committee.

While it deals primarily with the question of "Who owns the railroads," the chairman, Representative James S. Parker of New York, remarks that the holding company is perhaps more important in SOME OTHER LINES of business than in the railway field.

"THE DISCLOSURES HEREIN CONTAINED," says the chairman, "WILL UNDOUBTEDLY PROVOKE A DESIRE TO REGULATE THE HOLDING COMPANY AS AN AGENCY IN BUSINESS."

BAINBRIDGE COLBY.

In no line of business has the device of the holding company spread so rapidly and become so important as in the field of public utilities.

"Who owns the railroads" is perhaps not so interesting to the public, chafing under ineffective regulation and rate control, as who owns the electric lighting company, or the power company, or the gas company, or the interurban railway.

One who is at all familiar with the experience of the public service commissioners of the various states perceives clearly that THE GREAT THWART to the efficiency of public regulation IS THE HOLDING COMPANY—the absentee owner of the local operating company, INACCESSIBLE to state authority, and disputing the right, as well as resisting the effort, to inquire into its financial and managerial relations with its operating units.

These holding companies operate on very far flung lines.

A single one may touch the lives of millions of our people, and reach into many states and thousands of communities.

Take, for illustration, the Middle West Utilities Company, to which our attention was drawn recently, in an address over the radio, delivered by its president, Mr. Martin J. Insull.

This company is not the largest of its kind, nor does it materially differ from others. But it is fairly representative.

Its subsidiary companies, operating in thirty states, serve an estimated population of 6,306,942 people in 4405 communities (in which term are included populous cities, towns and villages).

It supplies electricity for light and power to 4244 communities; gas to 280; water to 76; ice to 242; heat to 18; railway to 33, and bus transportation to 29 communities.

The large function of the operating companies serving these many communities is "making available ELECTRIC ENERGY FOR EMPLOYMENT IN EVERY KNOWN UTILIZATION."

Their foundational strength, however, remains "THE AVERAGE ELECTRICAL CUSTOMER IN THE AVERAGE AMERICAN COMMUNITY."

It is this utility company growing?

We should say rather rapidly. Its customers in 1924 numbered 543,000, but in five years the number had grown to 1,648,000.

Its gross earnings had increased in the same period from $41,000,000 to $162,000,000.

Well, here is QUITE A FIELD OF INTER-COMPANY CONTRACTS, FINANCING CONTRACTS, UNDERWRITING CONTRACTS, ENGINEERING CONTRACTS, CONSTRUCTION CONTRACTS, MANAGEMENT CONTRACTS, SUPERVISION CONTRACTS, ET CETERA.

And what is the policy of the company, with reference to profits from these vast sources?

Very little, we fear, goes to the reduction of rates charged by the subsidiary companies to the consumer, or is reflected in the rate base on which charges for service are calculated.

Indeed, we do not have to guess as to what is done with these rich revenues.

It is the policy of the Middle West Utilities Company that whatever profits are made in any operation affecting the company shall go directly into its treasury, whether they be made from financing, underwriting, engineering, construction, management or supervision.

So says one of the leading manuals, whose information is compiled from company sources—an authority on the subject of public utilities, widely relied on by investors and dealers in securities.

Perhaps the holding companies will hold out a little longer in their effort to bar the public service commissions from examining their operating expense ledgers, where the facts are HIDDEN as to the cost of the various "services" for which they receive these handsome fees.

Thus far they have vigorously opposed all efforts to ascertain the relation of the cost of services rendered by them to their controlled utilities, and the fees collected for such services, in some cases exceeding one-half of the total income of the holding company.

BUT THE FORCES OF EFFICIENT REGULATION ARE MOVING UP. THE REPORT OF THE INTERSTATE AND FOREIGN COMMERCE COMMITTEE IS THE HANDWRITING ON THE WALL.

Listen, World! -- By Elsie Robinson

Too Much Hurry?

ARE AMERICAN workmen more careless than workers of foreign birth? Less interested in their work? Less caring little for the trade itself?

Yes, wrote George Ullman of Los Angeles. "The fight—BUT THERE'S A REASON."

"The American youngsters certainly are careless. They learn to be that way from the examples set by their fathers—who also are careless."

"The European worker differs from the European worker in that he is not entirely responsible."

"The American worker differs from the European worker in that he is not entirely responsible."

"The American worker differs from the European worker in that he is not entirely responsible."

There were made as hops. Hoped we—how DARED we criticize American workers?

But there was an answer that stood out. Amazingly, the writer agreed with that boaster—BUT THERE'S A REASON.

"The American youngsters certainly are careless. They learn to be that way from the examples set by their fathers—who also are careless."

"The European worker differs from the European worker in that he is not entirely responsible."
